Policy and Advanced Consent to Treat Minors

An individual under age 18 is considered a minor and, for most medical care, must have a parent or legal guardian's consent. See also HIPAA privacy rule, 65 Fed. Reg. 82,810 (2000) (to be codified as 45 C.F.R. 164.506), which provides that a health care provider may exercise professional judgment regarding consent. However, state law allows minors the right to consent to certain health care without a parent or guardian's consent. A minor may consent to medical care:

- If the minor is emancipated (legally independent) or married to someone at or above age 18. (RCW 26.28.020)
- In the event emergency care is necessary. (When impractical to get parental consent first)
- For birth control and pregnancy-related care at any age. (See State v. Koome)
- For outpatient drug- and alcohol-abuse treatment beginning at age 13. (RCW 70.96A.095)
- For outpatient mental health treatment beginning at age 13. (RCW 71.34.500 and 71.34.530)
- For sexually transmitted diseases, including HIV/AIDS, beginning at age 14. (RCW 70.24.110)

If a minor consent to care as allowed by law. He or she can request confidentiality for that aspect of care, which would prohibit the health care provider from releasing this information without the minor's signed authorization.

If a minor is treated, needs consent, and the parent or guardian provide such consent, then the parent or guardian has the authority to request and release records and discuss care without the child's express written permission.
